Share and Comment Hi! I've just realized that this post has been sitting over here with the 15 topics and no-one even looking at it. I guess I should delete it. Anyway, it's not intended to be spam and it was never going to be, just had a few supporters to kick start it but I might as well tell you about it anyway. The reasons it's here are the following: 1) I'm currently working at a government agency in the IT department and I also help out at home with my family by doing some other things in my spare time. 2) I love programming and I've developed a few programs on my own but now I'd really like to make some big changes. So what better way to get some help and support than to create a post with a freely available program for free? I've also included some personal info for you guys to get to know me better. 3) I've created a forum for this blog that might prove to be useful later on so once again, why not add yourself to the small audience? 4) The program I've included is free to download, use and distribute in any way you want. The only condition is you have to give me credit for my work if you distribute it. 5) It's a trial version for 60 days, including use on the trial version. 6) If you like it, you can buy the full version from here: You're basically buying the license, but I just want to ensure that you have something for me to be credited for my work. 7) Well, that's it for me, I'm confident you'll be my biggest fan. You can download the link from above and try it out for yourselves
