The live movement capture data will be used to provide strategic contextual information that looks at how teams move together, how players work together, and how the AI reacts to that movement. It takes over 45 hours of information to create each player's behavioural weighting or look. Performance for 22 players can be created using over 75% of the player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions collected from a match. Behavioural traits are now influenced by the interaction between players by team and opposition. This new approach is only available in the online mode. To create a full player, the performance needs to be created using 45 hours of data with each player having his/her own unique traits and behaviours. Players can be blended between clubs or formed individually by a club. For current players, data update will be on a regular basis as new data is taken from live competition. After the update, individual player data can be accessed by clicking on the player's name. You can tweak movement abilities and attributes of the player. Player movement quality can be adjusted via the new simulation engine. More balance adjustments through the new player behavior. More training options: Short sprint speed and acceleration is increased for attack moves while top speed remains the same. Premier League players: Christian Eriksen (Tottenham Hotspur) - speed/dribbling/first touch/tackles/passes Harry Kane (Tottenham Hotspur) - speed/tackles/passes Philippe Coutinho (Liverpool) - speed/first touch/passes/dribbling Mario Balotelli (AC Milan) - speed/tackles/passes Robert Lewandowski (Bayern Munich) - speed/tackles/passes Grzegorz Krychowiak (Swansea City) - speed/tackles/passes Ivan Rakitic (Barcelona) - speed/tackles/passes Luka Modric (Real Madrid) - speed/tackles/passes Real Madrid's goalkeepers - speed/distribution A new sprint system with a new sprinting motion. New sprint mechanics - the faster the sprint is, the more aggressive the run becomes. The Sprinting Mechanics are also more reactive and it is easier
